

TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL CANADA, Inc.
BIOS OF NEW BOARD MEMBERS BEING NOMINATED IN 2011

Madelaine Drohan is an award-winning author and journalist who has covered business and politics in Canada, Europe and Africa. She is currently the Canada correspondent for The Economist magazine. Her book, Making a Killing: How and why corporations use armed force to do business, was published in 2004 by The Lyons Press in the United States. It won the Ottawa Book Award and was short-listed for the National Business Book of the Year Award in 2004. She is president of the board of directors of Partnership Africa Canada, which promotes sustainable human development in Africa, and a member of the board of The North-South Institute, an independent research institute focused on international development. When possible, Ms. Drohan conducts journalism workshops for media in Africa and Southeast Asia, with a special focus on business and investigative journalism. She was awarded a Reuters Fellowship at Oxford University in 1998, and the Hyman Solomon Award for Excellence in Public Policy Journalism in 2001. Ms. Drohan was a 2004-2005 Media Fellow at the Chumir Foundation for Ethics in Leadership and the 2004-2005 Journalist in Residence at Carleton University.

Bruce Futterer received his B.A. from the University of Toronto and his LL.B. from Osgoode Hall Law School. He was called to the Ontario bar in 1981. Mr. Futterer has held General Counsel positions with a number of companies in Canada and the U.S. during his career, including Wardair, Kerr Addison Mines, Stelco and a number of Cadbury Schweppes companies, including Dr Pepper/Seven Up Inc. He was also in private practice during the early 1990s with the Toronto firm of Holden Day Wilson. Mr. Futterer joined GE Canada as Vice President, General Counsel & Secretary in January 2007.

Thomas C. Marshall, Q. C., is a consultant and a former General Counsel to the Attorney General for Ontario. In this position, he provided legal advice to the Attorney General and acted as Counsel in all levels of court. Before being appointed Counsel, Crown Law Office Civil, for the Ministry of the Attorney General, in 1974, Mr. Marshall was in private practice with the law firm of MacMillan, Binch. He was appointed Director of the Office, in 1985, and made General Counsel to the Attorney General in 1990, before retiring from the Ontario public service in 2006. Mr. Marshall has a number of legal professional affiliations, including serving as Chair of the International Development Committee of the Canadian Bar Association (CBA), and has received a number of awards, including the John Tait Award of the CBA in 2001. In 2006, the Public Sector Lawyers' Section of the Ontario Bar Association created the Tom Marshall Award of Excellence in Public Service. The work with the CBA and his long experience with the provincial government, as well as active participation in TI-Canada, inform Mr. Marshall's activity in anti-corruption policy analysis.

Susan Reisler is a broadcast journalist with 25 years experience reporting news and documentaries from around the world for CBC Television and Radio. Before that, she spent four years with United Press International in the Parliamentary Press Gallery. In 2000, Ms. Reisler joined Media Profile as a public relations and communications consultant specializing in reputation and issues management, public relations campaigns and media training. Ms. Reisler maintains a keen interest in Canada-U.S. Relations through her membership on the Advisory Committee of the Canada Institute, a program at the Woodrow Wilson Center in Washington. She is a founding member of Human Rights Watch in Canada and supports Canadian Journalists for Free Expression as well as numerous other non profit organizations.

Joseph Ringwald, P Eng., is Vice President, Mining, Selwyn Resources Ltd., primarily responsible for project development and mine operations and serves on the Executive Committee for the Centre for Excellence in Corporate Social Responsibility. Mr. Ringwald was most recently Vice President, Project Development, Brett Resources Inc., and prior to that Vice President, Sustainable Development and Technical Services, Tournigan Energy Ltd., primarily responsible for all engineering studies for Tournigan's advanced projects, as well as all government and community engagement and communications. Mr. Ringwald has served as Technical Director Mining and Principal Mining Engineer for AMEC Americas Limited, where he developed and managed a team of 30 mining engineering specialists. Prior to his involvement with AMEC, he was VP Project Development for Crew Development Corporation, with executive control and responsibility for feasibility, permitting and EPCM of the Nalunaq Gold Project in Greenland. Mr. Ringwald also held senior positions with SRK Consulting and Placer Dome Technical Services. He completed both Mining and Mineral Process Engineering programs for his B.ASc at the University of British Columbia.

J. Michael Robinson, Q.C., is counsel at the law firm of Fasken Martineau Dumoulin LLP in its Toronto office. His law practice (of 42 years) emphasizes international private (business) law - international sales, trade and investment and particularly international public/private partnerships for infrastructure developments. As such, he is familiar with problems caused by corruption. Mr. Robinson currently teaches international treaty, trade and investment law as an Adjunct Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School (York University), Toronto, and the Faculty of Law, University of Western Ontario, London, Ontario. For 25 years he was active in the Section on Business Law, International Bar Association, London, holding Committee Chair and Co-Chairs and as a member of Council.