“TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL’S BUSINESS PRINCIPLES FOR COUNTERING BRIBERY: How industry, its suppliers and government can work together”

AND

TENTH ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

Tuesday, June 12, 2007, 09:00 – 14:00

Gowling Lafleur Henderson, Ste 1600, 1 First Canadian Place, 100 King St. W., Toronto

When working both nationally and internationally, businesses - large, medium and small – are frequently faced with the risk of dealing with bribery and corruption. In addition to informing businesses, government and the general public of the effects of corruption in national and international marketplaces, TI-Canada’s purpose is to provide support and resources for public and private sector initiatives to prevent corrupt business practices. One suite of tools which can be employed to provide a model for companies seeking to adopt a comprehensive anti-bribery program is Transparency International’s Business Principles for Countering Corruption (BPCB). Come hear what small and large businesses are doing when confronted with bribery and corruption, how governments can provide support and how the BPCB can be employed to mitigate the risk.
